Biography & Book Info

BIOGRAPHY

Internationally published in anthologies, magazines and literary journals, and the bestselling Cup of Comfort series, award-winning author Louise Mathewson has always written about the sacred moments in everyday experiences. Today, those experiences hold even deeper meaning.

Her new book, A Life Interrupted: Living with Brain Injury, is a collection of transformative poetry that arose from her experience following a traumatic brain injury. It chronicles her emergence from a coma following a serious car accident, her recovery journey, and triumphant return to her writing career.

Louise, who holds a Masters degree in Pastoral Studies from Loyola University in Chicago, is a passionate advocate for the many who face the daily physical, emotional and spiritual challenges of living with a disability. A native of Chicago, Louise lives, writes and advocates from her home in Eden Prairie, Minnesota. Online at www.louisemathewson.com.
